Phyllis McLeod

A quiet friend,
One loved by all.
We miss her now,
And wish that she were here.

A classmate true
Fun-loving like the rest.
We see her now
And silently she is here.

History of the Class of 1946

CLEVELAND E. BURNHAM

When John Casey shut the door of his home room, just as the bell rang, he represented one hundred and sixty newcomers to M.H.S. It was no uncommon sight to see one of our class wandering around in a daze, or one of the girls looking admiringly at a tall senior.

Finally after opening one eye, we elected Donald (I love photography) Atkins as class president, James (I want to be a band leader) Kenyon vice president, Betty Jane (I don't care if I am small) Skahill as secretary, and Patricia (I'll get that man yet) Waite as treasurer. Miss Ryder, teacher of freshman English, was our class advisor.

Because of the war with Japan and Germany, the school instituted air raid drills in 1942. Mr. Rayman Hyman, faculty advisor to the traffic squad, did a fine job with the drills until October of 1942 when he left to enter the service of his country. During his absence Mr. Edward Whitmore, of the Science Department, took over his duties and ably carried on.

During the class's four year rise to fame it surrendered four of its boys to Uncle Sam: Robert Dyke, Clarence Millette, Henry Morris, and Robert Lammi. Henry Morris returned to the class in his senior year, disgusted at the Navy's refusal to make him admiral of the fleet.

In our sophomore year after becoming used to the ways and means of M.H.S., we elected John Rice as president, James Kenyon as vice president, Margaret Burnett as secretary, and Barbara Jones as treasurer.

With the re-election of John Rice as president, James Kenyon as vice president, Betty Jane Skahill as secretary, and Patricia Waite as tresurer, plans for the Junior Prom got under way. The music for the hep-cats was supplied by Gene Marshall's orchestra. Caps and horns were given to couples as favors so that the grown-up juniors might act like kids again. We held a second grand march for those stylish folks who arrived late.

Coaches Battis, Teeling, and Farley led the squads of M.H.S. on to winning seasons in football, basketball, and baseball, while senior cheerleaders, Patricia Waite, Pam Jones, and Betty Skahill, spurred them on. Mr. Farley was mainly responsible for a fine job of coaching, which led this year's basketball squad almost to the championship.

The coming of the senior year saw Edgar Gay class president, John Rice vice president, Elaine Doucette secretary, and Margaret Burnett treasurer.

One year after our Junior Prom, on Pearl Harbor Day, December seventh, the class of 1946 presented its senior play. With a cast consisting of Donald Mello, David Fish, John Cayton, Mildred Claire Riley, John Casey, Margaret Burnett, Roger Tillson, Jean Maddigan, and Eleanor Derosier, and under the direction of Miss Barbara Stanhope assisted by Alice Colvin, the presentation of "Smilin' Through" was a big success. The sale of tickets was handled by Herbert Thompson, costumes by Emma Reed, and publicity by Bessie Reynolds. Under the able direction of Mrs. Sylvia Matheson, Marian Hanson and committee did a fine job with the make-up, and Constance Sparrow and helpers designed an unusual setting. Marilyn Shaw, Elaine Wilbur, and Eugene Kennedy helped things along with the handling of ushers, sound effects and lighting respectively. Miss Flora Porter acted as pianist for the evening, and all music was under the supervision of Mr. Luther Churchill. Mr. Ernest Thomas supervised the selling of tickets. Orchids to all who contributed to the success of the play.

As well as losing a third of the members of the class in four years, we also gained a few able members. Among them is Gil (that's what I like about the South) Campbell, who kinda likes the Yankee Girls. Others are Margaret Hartley, Joan Marshall, Charlotte Mulley, Constance Purcell, Mary Joy Cosseboom, Dorothy Montgomery, Roger Keedwell, and Laurier Wood.

The production of the Yearbook saw Henry Johnson as editor-in-chief, and Frank Scholz and Jack Rice as assistant editors. Donald Shaw, James Mahoney, and Richard Chaplain went around begging everyone to "please buy a yearbook and be different." We do not know whether we appreciate more Donald Atkin's gift of all the group photography work for the yearbook, or the gift of suspended classes for three periods during the taking of the pictures.

School honors were bestowed upon Roger Tillson valedictorian, Betty Jane Skahill and Marian Hanson as joint salutatorians. Honor essays were written by Henry Johnson, Alice Colvin, and Frank Scholz.

Thus with the passing of time another class has passed through the portals of M. H. S. Though we leave the school, no one among us will ever forget it or its faculty. "From This Day Forth" we begin another phase of history, not as students but as citizens, and good citizens.

Prophecy of the Class of 1946

MARILYN DEMERS
JACK RICE

DONALD MELLO
PATRICIA WAITE

The new photographer on the staff of "Life" magazine is none other than Margaret Hartley. The picture on the cover of this week's "Life", entitled "Louie," was taken by Margaret.

Featured on a musical program Sunday evening, is the new orchestra of Henry Morris. Henry also provides the vocals and he's signed a contract to make movies for Paramount.

T. W. A. has a new pilot for their airlines. Walter Dunbar agreed to a five year contract to fly for T. W. A. for $500 a week plus an apartment for him and his wife, Pat Waite, who is the new air hostess on Walt's plane. Pretty cozy, don't you think?

Laurier Wood's "Used Car Mart" is doing a thriving business. His motto is, "A backfire guaranteed with every car."

Russell Osborne has accepted a position with the United States Department of Agriculture. So if your turnips won't turn, your stringbeans won't string, and your peppers have no pep — call Russell, and he'll make your garden grow.

Those stunning new hair styles now worn by Hollywood actresses are the work of a newcomer to the cinema workshop, Dot Long.

Joan Marshall is a new employee at the "Sleepwell Mattress Co." No, she's not a secretary; she just sleeps on the mattresses all day to test them. Sh-sh-sh, she's working now.

Gene Krupa having now retired, only one ace drummer man is now leading an orchestra. Dave Fish is the drummer man and he's currently at the "Canoe Club."

Carmen Kennedy is still singing and dancing in her own musical, "The Lakeville Follies," now in its third year on Broadway.

Capt. Herbert Thompson wishes to make a plea for volunteers at this time. Any boy who can see lightning and hear thunder will be sworn into the Massachusetts State Guard by Capt. Thompson any time this week.

Fred Lincoln has retired from the magician business and is now clicking prize-winning pictures for "Look" magazine.

Connie Smith, the new art editor of "Seventeen", is looking for some male models for her sketches. We hear she's got plenty of applicants.

Donald Shaw has now taken over the Middleboro Gazette. No longer does it come out weekly, nor even daily. Donald publishes his gazette every hour. He says he doesn't like to print stale news.

Kenny Crowell has opened a school for models. He personally teaches the girls how to pose. He always did like the girls, but whoever thought he could make a living out of it?

Donald Atkins was appointed president of "Atkins Frame and Picture Company." When asked if he were making much progress, he replied, "Why, girls who work there really co-operate in the dark room."

No more wrong numbers now in our telephone service. Dependable Harriet Murdock, the new telephone operator, always gives you the right number.

Admiral Roger Tillson of the United States Navy has ordered the government's chief engineer, Frank Scholz, to build a series of bridges over the Nemasket River. Admiral Tillson then plans to have atomic bombs dropped on the bridges so that he and engineer Scholz can view the wreckage.

Peggy Burnett is preparing to leave on a tour of England where she has been invited to sing before the King. Of course she'll be back in time to open her musical show on Broadway.

The first farmer to transport his crops by airplane was Joseph Byrne. He claims his service is so fast that if you plant cucumbers in California, you can eat them as dill pickles in Massachusetts four hours later.

Emma Lou Reed has opened up "Emmy's Ice Cream Palace," where she sells 439½ different flavors of "Dunham's Homemade Ice Cream."

Only Eugene Kennedy's comic films are allowed to be shown at the "Lakeville Laff-movie". Naturally the theatre is always full even if there are only six seats.

Betty Perkins has opened up a fruit stand on the new road, and many tourists heading for the Cape stop there to buy her fruits.

Naturally she specializes in sweet, wonderful "Peaches."

Bessie Reynolds is still head office clerk at the Plymouth Shoe Company, and the President of the firm says she must be the most efficient secretary in the country.

Arthur Craig has opened a new Super Market in the big city of North Middleboro, (which is considered by him as the "Gold Coast"), and charges only half price to all pretty girls.

Children now don't have to worry about homework, thanks to electrical wizard Roger Keedwell. He has crossed atomic power with electricity, and his new machine automatically does anybody's homework.

Jean Maddigan, the most successful authoress of modern times, is still turning out best sellers. Her latest is entitled, "Hubba, Hubba, Here Comes Male Call."

Carmelina Galanto was recently voted "Outstanding Pessimist of America" in an election held in New York City. She is now known as the "I doubt it" girl.

We've recently come back from a trip to Mars in a rocket ship which was designed, built, and piloted by Professor John Casey, on leave from his teaching duties at Harvard.

While up in Mars, I ran into a couple of scientists who were introducing "Raegan" and "Elva" to the people of Mars. Burnham and Brackett, by the way, were the scientists.

I went into a restaurant to get a meal up there in Mars, and I left the waitress a $5.00 tip. This was not because the service was good, but because the waitress was Barbara Dunham.

Andy Pawlak is up in Mars too, and he's President of the Mars Baseball League and has charge of all baseball in Mars.

John Turner is head of "Turner's Rocket Express", a transportation company which trades between the Earth and Mars in rocket ships. It's rumored around that he's looking for women pilots.

Connie Purcell has set up a missionary hospital in the wilderness of Carver where she gives injections to the natives against "Cranberry Fever".

No longer is cancer the feared disease it used to be since Dr. John Birchman Rice has found its cause and discovered a sure cure for it. Dr. Rice is a modest man and doesn't want publicity, so don't spread this around.

Shirley MacNeill, who started as a secretary at M. G. M. and is now their most popular actress, has just completed her fourth motion picture called, "The Bells of Saint Noyer".

Dot Fanjoy now has her own drug store and it's called, "Tiny Charlie's Hangout."

That cute little chuckle and sweet little giggle heard on the Bob Hope show belong to Charlotte Swift.

Kaiser-Frasier promises the public plenty of streamlined automobiles next year. The reason is that Mazsie Pittsley has been hired to design them.

Jeanne Vaughan is head of the Department of Education in the President's cabinet, but the cabinet only meets once a week now because Jeannie is kept busy the rest of the week keeping house for Fred.

With the experience gained from drawing teachers' pictures on the wall, genial Connie Sparrow has become an outstanding commercial artist. Her sketches for the Jantzen Swim Suit Company really catch the eye.

Elaine Doucette has been appointed to the new cabinet division, Department of Health. Her official title is Secretary of Physical Education and Recreation for Health. She immediately recommended that Betty Skahill be appointed chief dietitian in charge of the nation's health. Betty's first decree in her new position was, "Don't touch that mushroom; it might be a toadstool."

Evelyn Renaud, who started as secretary at Nemasket Springs Beverage Company, is now in charge of advertising for the concern. Her latest slogan is, "Feeling Tired? Get springy with Nemasket Springs."

Jack March is now chairman of the National Accident Prevention Week. His personal experiences illustrate what may happen to high school students.

Charlotte Mulley has stopped "Racing with the Moon." She has become Vaughn Monroe's personal secretary and certainly enjoys her work.

John Cayton is starring on Broadway in the revival of the play, "Smilin' Through", in the portrayal of Willie, a role which he first made famous in the local town hall.

Bev Vigers is completely up in the air over her new job; she is an air hostess on the I.A.S. airlines. She claims I.A.S. stands for International Air Service but we have an idea it could mean It Ain't Safe.

Shirley Holmgren is still at Memorial High School. Don't get us wrong; she graduated all right and has become Miss Veazie's assistant.

Donald Thayer has been voted the American Farmer of the Year because of his outstanding work in the development of squirtless grapefruit.

Shirley Osborne and Florence Haire have become missionaries in China. Florence lures the Chinese to the mission with her trombone so that Shirley can convert them.

In his magnificent green houses filled with the fragrance and beauty of the world's most exotic flowers, Raphael Mello proudly displays his latest creation, a tulip with green petals. He solved the riddle of the chlorophyll and for his great work he was elected president of the United States Floral Society.

Richard Chaplain is still Captain of the Boston Yanks' professional football team. He is the center of the team and also the center of attraction as far as the girls are concerned.

Eleanor Derosier is the able dental assistant for the new dentist located in downtown Middleboro, Dr. Yankum Harder.

Marian Hanson has become an M. D. — Musical Director, that is — at the newly established Depot Grove Conservatory of Music.

Marilyn Demers, after having won the title, "Outstanding Athlete of the Year", has opened a Physical Culture School in the midst of the Rotary Circle.

Senator Henry Johnson from Massachusetts woke up long enough in the Senate yesterday to propose that his hometown of Carver be made capital of the state.

When Annette Perkins appeared recently on "Information Please" and was asked, "From which side do you milk a goat?" she promptly answered correctly. This was not because she owns a goat farm but because she has become one of the foremost veterinarians in the country.

The crowds of women descending daily on Fenway Park would lead one to believe Ladies' Day was a daily event at the Red Sox home. That isn't the situation at all. It's only the appeal of talented Ed Camminati, the mainstay of their hurling staff.

Ted Gay has become Bill Cunningham's foremost competitor. The name of Ted's column is "Gay-pers and Cutups."

Walt Moquin is now trying to take all the cows on his farm for rides in the rumble seat of his car so he won't have to churn the butter.

Ruth Gomes has harnessed atomic energy to a machine which increases the volume of the speaking voice.

Fred Souza has opened "Friendly Freddie's Filling Station." His biggest selling product is the new Lorraine gas, good to the last drip.

Mildred Claire Riley is going places in her job. She's travelling all over the world as a buyer for one of New York's leading stores.

Jean DeMoranville has just been selected for the seventh consecutive year as one of ten best dressed women in the country.

Mary Joy's latest book is "causing-a-boom" at the bookstores. The title is "How to be Contented in the Backwoods of Maine."

Madeline didn't "Tripp" when the time came for her marriage to "Donald'. We all knew she "Wood" take the vows when the right time came.

Helen Mosier, head nurse at a nearby hospital, uses her soft blue eyes to soothe the pain stricken patients, thus doing away with the use of morphine.

Olive Magri, who used to write plenty of notes in high school, is now a successful authoress. She owes it all to the wonderful training she received at the "Perkins Institute of Learning."

Doris Dudley has been commissioned chief astronomer at Harvard University. Harvard has provided her with an assistant called "Al", so you can be sure she does plenty of "star gazing."

When Al Brooks calls out, "Order! Order!" don't say, "a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee," because he's not a waiter! He's president of the National Student Council and is merely calling the meeting to order.

Alice Colvin, dean of "Colvin's College of Mental Knowledge", became the first person to understand completely Einstein's Theory of Relativity. She's now perfecting molecular power as a means of control over atomic energy.

Marilyn and Grace Shaw, the demure sisters, have fallen victims to the lure of big business. They create new gowns for the elite social set, at their 5th Avenue Shop in New York.

Shirley Gaskin is benefiting from the experience she gained from selling lunch tickets at M. H. S. She is now selling tickets at Jimmy Kenyon's Three Ring Circus. In his circus, Jim has two wonderful and different performances with horses. In the first, Jim directs his orchestra in a waltz, polka, and foxtrot while his wife, Barbara Jones, rides her favorite horse in perfect time with the music. The other act is the work of Deborah Anderson, who paces her pet horse through many exciting and difficult tricks. "Bozo" Santin is the clown, and his hearty chuckles are a carry-over of the Santa Claus role he played so well at M. H. S. Because of the help shortage, he also doubles as the strong man.

We now find Eileen Casey visiting her friend Deborah at the circus every afternoon. She uses the same strategy to get out of work as she did in getting out of her home room at M. H. S.

Dorothy Montgomery has opened a school in her old home town, Hanover. She teaches courses in home economics. Her slogan is: "If you can cook — if you can sew — you'll meet a lot of men we know."

Clare Begley is still a great star at Warner Bros. Studio, where she appears only in southern love stories. A lot of credit belongs to her director-husband, Gilbert Campbell, who coaches her in how to make love southern style — southern, that is.

Phyllis Houlihan's blushes are being used by the State Board of Censors in Shock Tests. Deep carmine shades are banned.

Marita Dame, who always liked history, has become the world's greatest historian. Her books are used by all high school students. She is reputed to be an authority on "dates".

Grace Burgess has left for New York where she has been signed to play solo piccolo for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

Don Pierce has opened the "North Street Riding Stables". When girls come there he usually says to them, "Hubba, hubba, I'll certainly take you for a ride."

Delwin Cole has come a long way since the day he told Mr. Sturtevant the Irish potato is so named because it has a green top. He is now chairman of the State Board of Agriculture.

Irene Bennett's dancing ability has proved to be the key to her success. She is now starred in a current Broadway hit, "The North Street Blues."

People who remember Madeline Leary as a shy, retiring person, will be surprised to hear that she has written a best seller that is really "Wool-worth" reading.

Our lovely Pam Jones is still a leader. One thousand boys have failed to catch her. A song lately dedicated to her is, "Oh, Pamelia, 'Melia, 'Melia, I've made up my mind to stealia." It is sung by none other than the famous dancer, Jimmy Jo Mahoney. Critics claim he dances better than Fred Astaire.

Shirley Fickert at school ate only one meal a day, but when you consider it was one continuous meal, it is easy to understand how she became head sampler for the National Food Company.

Francis Tees, who resides in Beverly, Massachusetts, is running for mayor and Beverly is seriously considering offering him the permanent management of her affairs.

Muriel Hudson and Elaine Wilbur are both working at the "Rock General Hospital". Muriel prepares the patients' diets, while Elaine, head nurse of the maternity ward, sings the little darlings to sleep.

Marjorie Gates has opened a charm and beauty school called "The Gateway to Beauty". The popularity of the school is due to the fact that Margie won the title of "Miss America of 1950."

Dot Whitman is a featured skater in the "Skating Vanities". Dot made a lot of ice chips during her school days, and now it's paying off in the form of more profitable "chips".

Viola Westling, one of our diamond ring girls, took the trip to the altar soon after graduation and is living the "happily-ever-after" life.

Winona Tessier is in New York City as a John Powers model, thus accounting for the sudden increase in the male population of New York.

Donald Mello and his wife Nellie are living in a swanky apartment in New York City. Every Monday night Donald has his own radio program, which is the feature of the evening sponsored by the Mel-O-dee Coffee Shoppe.

The Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1946

MARGARET BURNETT

Be it remembered that we, the Senior Class in the Memorial High School of Middleboro in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, being the only class of sound mind and memory, but knowing the uncertainty of life, do make this our last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills by us at anytime heretofore made.

After the payments of our just debts and funeral charges we do bequeath and devise as follows:

The footprints of wisdom with which we have so indelibly impressed the halls of Memorial High School must not be in vain. So to those tiny tots of immaturity, the freshmen, we leave our old shoes that they may better follow in our footprints.

To the Class of '47, we do will and bequeath all boys and girls borrowed during the duration of our short visit at M. H. S.

We the Class of '46 do will and bequeath to all up and coming sophomore boys, the "natural" art pictures taken in Connecticut's woodlands by Herby Thompson and Jimmie Kenyon.

The Class of '46 feels it only proper to leave to Miss Erickson a new ventilating system — in hopes that this system will keep the room dusty as well as the radiators have kept it cold.

To Mr. Thomas, it is with great pleasure we leave an historical textbook "The Rise and Fall of M. H. S." covering the most important era of this high school during the reign of the Class of '46.

Unto the leading men in the senior play of next year, we leave Roger Tillson's desire for a uniform — be it Army or Navy — and Johnny Cayton's ability for making "beating around the bush" proposals.

To the future president of the Class of '47, Ted Gay, our president, leaves his untouched gavel and his air of authority.

To Miss Ryder, the editors of the various departments in the Sachem do leave their remarkable editorial ability so that she may plant it in the minds of the forthcoming freshmen class.

Al Brooks, president of the Student Council, does will and bequeath to the future president of said organization his unopened book of "Parliamentary Law."

The Class of '46 does will and bequeath Mecca and Dick Chaplain's jitterbug team work to any under classmen who will accept it at their own risk.

We do will and bequeath John Santin's frame to Donnie Mitchell for rebuilding.

Patty Waite leaves her infectious laugh to anyone who thinks he can stand it.

To all future students of M. H. S. we do will and bequeath all diamonds purchased by the seniors to be used as class rings if so desired.

Last but not least, Roger Tillson, Marian Hanson, and Betty Jane Skahill leave their enviable records and titles of valedictorian and salutatorian respectively to those most deserving of this most esteemed honor.

In testimony whereof we hereunto set our hands and in the presence of three witnesses declare this to be our last will this 11th day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-six.

On this 11th day of June, 1946, A. D., the Class of 1946 of Memorial High School of Middleboro, Massachusetts, signed the foregoing instrument in our presence, declaring it to be their last will; and, thereafter, as witnesses thereof we three, at their request, in their presence, and in the presence of each other, hereunto subscribe our names.

Band

LUTHER CHURCHILL, Director — CLARE BEGLEY, Manager

BARBARA JONES, Drum Major

This year the Memorial High School Band, under the competent direction of Mr. Churchill, once again has made vital contributions to the activities of the school. Opening its season at Battis Field on Columbus Day, the band played at many other football games and at the annual Armistice Day parade.

The main event of the year was the joint concert on March 8 when members of the a cappella choir from Keene, New Hampshire, were guests. The band paid a return visit to Keene on May 10. Plans are being made for participation in the closing exercises at Tabor Academy, and as always, for the Memorial Day parade.

Choir

LUTHER CHURCHILL, Director

This year's transformation of the former Glee Club into a smaller choir has given Mr. Churchill the opportunity of working with a group of talented students. Under the skillful direction of Mr. Churchill, the choir has added much to the musical life of M. H. S.

One of the first important performances of the new group was at the program held in the Walter Sampson Auditorium on December 20, 1945, when the choir, with many appropriate songs, brought the "air of Christmas" to the halls of M. H. S. Another musical experience came to the group on March 20—23, when twenty-four students with Mr. Churchill attended the New England Music Festival at New Britain, Connecticut.

On March 29, 1946, M. H. S.'s musical director organized a group of girls, chosen from the members of the Choir. These girls have sung special arrangements of the standard popular songs with emphasis upon certain choral effects such as those arranged by Fred Waring.

ELAINE DOUCETTE, Assistant Secretary

Under the capable direction of Miss Merrill, the faculty adviser, and president Alvan Brooks, the activities of this year's Student Council have been more varied than in previous years, and much progress has been made in setting up a more centralized organization. The council has provided a governmental unit for the school and has coordinated many student activites.

First row: Miss Merrill, Elaine Doucette, Patricia Waite, Alvan Brooks, Henry Johnson, Richard Chaplain, Barbara Jones

Traffic Squad

EDWARD WHITMORE, Faculty Adviser

RAYMOND HYMAN, Faculty Adviser

JACK RICE, ROGER TILLSON, Chiefs

Under the able leadership of both Mr. Whitmore and Mr. Hyman, the traffic squad carried out its various duties during the past year in its usual fine manner. Mr. Whitmore was the faculty advisor at the beginning of the year, but upon returning from the service, Mr. Hyman assumed his old position. When Mr. Hyman left, Mr. Whitmore once again took over the reins of the squad. Two of the duties of the Traffic Squad are to maintain order in the corridors and to supervise fire drills.

Girls' League

ARLINE MERRILL, Faculty Adviser

BARBARA JONES, President

MAE SHING, Vice President

MARIAN HANSON, Secretary

BETTE ANN WAITE, Treasurer

The Girls' League, under the capable direction of Miss Merrill, has carried on a varied program of activities, which included a vocational program, a mother-daughter tea, a formal mid-winter dance, and a farewell party for the seniors. The League also helped in the presentation of a hobby show, and its talented members entertained the public at several town functions. Plans are being made for a gift to be presented to the school.

The Sachem staff, this year realizing one of its ambitions, has had its three issues printed rather than planeographed. The results have been entirely satisfactory, not only by improving the looks of the magazine, but also by cutting down the work of the staff in preparing it for press.

Student Librarians

MARGARET DODGE, Librarian

The new library, which has been moved from Room 28 and is now housed in Room 22, fills a definite need in the school. It functions like a public library with a fine filing system and a corps of student librarians. A great deal of credit goes to Mrs. Margaret Dodge, who has worked hard to increase the library facilities. The library's atmosphere of neatness, order, and quiet has had a good effect on the attitude of the student body toward school.

Cheerleaders

EVELYN WHITTY, Faculty Adviser — PAMELIA JONES, Captain

The cheerleaders have inspired the athletes of M. H. S. to the winning of many a game, both in football and basketball. This year's squad has been the largest ever, and it has done a fine job.

The cheerleaders and hockey team combined, sponsored a Christmas social under the direction of Coach Whitty.

Next fall the cheerleaders will continue their work and hope for another successful year. To achieve this goal, however, they must have the cooperation of all the "fans".

JEAN MADDIGAN, Secretary

The class of 1946 was privileged to assist in many endeavors for the Red Cross, and each home room responded generously to complete gift boxes for children overseas, scrap books for disabled veterans, and ditty bags for soldiers.

The remembrance of our participation in these projects during the war will provide a continuous satisfaction for us during the years to come. We will be glad that we were able to do something for someone who was unable to do it for himself.

DONALD HURD, Vice President — EUGENE McMANUS, Secretary

WILFRED LAVALLEE, Treasurer — RICHARD HICKS, Reporter

WILLIAM BYRNE, Watchdog

The Future Farmers of America, or "F. F. A." as it is commonly known, is the national organization of, by, and for boys studying vocational agriculture in public secondary schools under the provisions of the National Vocational Education Acts.

As an integral part of the program of vocational education in agriculture in the public school system of America, the "F. F. A." has become well known in recent years. No national student organization enjoys greater freedom of self-government under adult counsel and guidance than the Future Farmers of America.

The "F. F. A." is an intra-curricular activity, having its origin and root in a definite part of the school curriculum — vocational agriculture.

Lunch Room

CARRIE LUIPPOLD, Dietitian — DORIS I. WEEMAN, Assistant Dietitian

GLADYS SNOW, Assistant Dietitian — ERNEST THOMAS, Administrator

This year, with the hot lunches being served to an average of 150 students per day, the lunchroom has provided many unusual menus. In addition, 200 sandwiches, 35 dozen ice creams, 120 packages of cupcakes, and 150 bottles of milk have been sold daily. As a government surplus commodity, orange juice has been served during the latter part of the year.

Football

HENRY E. BATTIS, Head Coach — ALFRED E. FARLEY, Assistant Coach
JOHN TURNER, FRANCIS TEES, Co-Captains

Memorial High's Orange and Black grid machine, with only three letter-men, racked up a not too impressive record of three wins, four defeats, and two ties. Cherished victories over Plymouth and Taunton were the highlights of the season. Lady Luck played her part in the game with Rockland, with an accidentally blocked MHS punt paving the way for a 19-13 Rockland triumph.

Boys' Basketball

ALFRED E. FARLEY, Head Coach — HENRY E. BATTIS, Assistant Coach
JOHN CAYTON, Captain

Welcoming the return of Coach Farley after his three years of service in Uncle Sam's Navy, the Orange and Black hoopsters played one of their finest seasons in the history of the school.

Highlighting the season's play were upset victories over Abington, Fairhaven, and Taunton. Not stopping here, the local "Whiz Kids" went on to reach the finals at the Brockton Tournament for the first time.

Local fans should be justly proud of this year's scrappy quintet, which maintained a very impressive record of 14 triumphs as against only five setbacks.

The schedule for this year's basketball team consisted of thirteen games, and although there was nothing impressive in the results of these games for M. H. S., the team put up a fine showing in each contest. The girls learned that whether you win or lose, if you play fairly and try your best, you're tops with the coach, and that is why she's tops with us.

Salutatory

MARIAN HANSON AND ELIZABETH SKAHILL

Superintendent Cushing, School Officials, Principal March, Faculty, Parents, and Friends: This year it takes two of us to express our appreciation for the guidance and understanding you have shown us during our school years; and it is our hope that we may live up to your expectations of us.

And it also takes two of us to welcome you to our graduation exercises. We, the class of 1946, sincerely hope you will enjoy the program we have planned for you and will think of us in the years to come.

THE EDUCATIONAL REHABILITATION OF VETERANS

MARIAN HANSON

A grateful nation, through its Congress, has made generous provision to assist men who have served it in war to prepare for their peacetime futures.

Under the terms of the G. I. Bill of Rights, the veterans who have had ninety days or more of active service at any time since September 16, 1940, and who have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, are entitled to one year of college training in a college of their own choice at the expense of the government. The government also will pay for additional college training, not to exceed four years, equivalent to the length of time spent on active duty in the armed forces. The twenty-five year age limit has been removed, making all veterans — regardless of age — eligible for full benefits.

Persons who were discharged or released from active service by reason of an actual service-incurred injury or disability are entitled to these same educational benefits, regardless of the length of their service, if they served for the period between September 16, 1940, and the end of World War II.

The requirements for entrance to college vary with the individual college. Each veteran may take tests to determine the type of work to which he is best suited and then from the results he can plan the course of studies which he should follow. Credits toward a diploma may be earned in the service. Two credits were given by high schools generally for basic training up to October first, and books have been issued by the government which state the number of credits granted for each course taken in a service school.

The educators in Massachusetts recognize the education and readjustment to civilian life of the returned veteran as the foremost problem of this time. Dr. John J. Desmond, Jr., Commissioner of Education in Massachusetts, says, "The general provision of Public Laws No. 16 and No. 346 present to the veteran an opportunity to complete his preparation for the higher education and to enter a college or technical school or to train for profitable employment in business or in industry. The plans are well advanced through the operation of the Regional Veterans' Education Centers in the State Teachers' Colleges and local communities; through the in-service and apprentice programs; and through the Division of University Extension." In March of this year there were twenty-eight Regional Veterans' Education Centers in Massachusetts enrolling over 1800 students.

If he prefers, the veteran may choose a business establishment or institution providing apprentice or other training on the job. The government agrees to pay him the difference between what he earns as an apprentice and what the experienced worker is paid.

Veterans may enroll for correspondence instruction only in institutions with which the Veterans' Administrator contracts, on the basis of an agreed cost. The government will pay as high as $500.00 for correspondence courses but no subsistence allowances are made to veterans taking these courses.

High School Equivalency Certificates are issued by the State Department of Education to those whose education is equal to that of the average high school senior. These certificates are accepted as meeting the requirement for admission to some colleges, for civil service positions, and for positions open to high school graduates.

"Education for all American Youth," the recent publication of the Education Policies Commission of the National Education Association, has recommended the addition of two grades to the traditional high school. Instead of using the words "Junior College," these two grades, XIII and XIV, would be called "Community Institutes." This would make it possible for students to take work of college grade, and yet remain at home. This work could be of a vocational nature or could be preparation for the last two years of the traditional liberal arts colleges. Because of the crowded situation in the colleges, many applicants cannot be admitted. One possibility of solving this problem is for the larger high schools in the state to expand so as to include grades XIII and XIV and also post-graduate courses.

Suggestions have also been made that service camps like Camp Edwards and Standish be used for colleges sponsored by the State Department of Education.

Newton, Massachusetts, already has plans to add grades XIII and XIV to her high school, and September 1946 will see many others following her example.

Middleboro itself is doing a great job in helping the veterans. Several veterans came back for post-graduate courses this year and a great many more are expected next year.

Middleboro's Veterans' Education Center opened April 30 of this year and is providing refresher courses for those who wish to brush up on their studies before going on to school, and giving those who never received their diplomas a chance to do so.

So, with the G. I. Bill, Public Laws No. 16 and No. 346, the in-service programs, and University Extension Courses, the veterans have an unsurpassed opportunity to further their education.

The Problem Facing High School Graduates

ELIZABETH SKAHILL

What can be done to help the high school graduate of today and tomorrow who is faced with the problem of veterans' preference in school and jobs? This important question merits the serious consideration of every citizen.

While quite a few seniors will be accepted into the college that they apply to, there are many who will probably be rejected because the colleges are filled by returning veterans. Some authorities estimate that in the state of Massachusetts alone there are 30,000 applicants for the 4,000 possible vacancies. There will be no opening in most of these schools until 1947 or '48.

That is one blank wall seniors are running up against; the other is that today jobs are limited for high school graduates because of these home-coming veterans. It is only fair that veterans have the preference, but it is just as fair that something be done for the graduates until they can enter a college or secure a position. They must be helped to keep alive the flame of ambition in the interests of crime prevention and their own future.

The following plans have been suggested as a means of partial solution to the problem:

First, the post-graduate course can be developed to interest more people in taking it. Here refresher courses can be offered; thus the student can be reviewing his subjects instead of forgetting them.

In the new high school which is being planned, an extended program for learning trades will be popular. This will enable the student to be better prepared for finding work and surer of getting a job. For girls there can be cooking and sewing classes in which they can learn fundamentals of Home Economics. Mr. Robert C. Taber said in an article on "What's Ahead for the Teens?" which appeared in Parents' Magazine July 1944: "The extension of such a program at the high school level promises to be one of the most significant developments in many years. It will help the pupils in making the transition from the familiarity and protection of the school atmosphere to the rigorous demands of a job. It will provide another avenue for helping a youngster to mature both emotionally and socially. He can acquire practical experience to explore various fields before committing himself to an occupation for the years to come."

Second, there is a demand for food and more food. An agricultural project with the support of the graduate can seemingly kill two birds with one stone. If some boys and even girls need an income right away, farm work might be one way out. They can work some land and earn the money they receive for selling their produce, or they can work on someone else's farm. With this extra help, farms can expand; more crops can be grown and harvested. In this program they can learn farm management and might start farms of their own.

Third, long ago people learned a trade by being an apprentice to a master craftsman. Today it is possible for graduates who are interested in learning plumbing, carpentering, and other trades to do so in this way. These students will get actual experience while learning.

Fourth, the armed forces are another factor which help us out. Men or women may enlist in some branch of the service with prospects of good pay and interesting work. If enlistment occurs before October 6, 1946, the enlistee will be eligible for the G. I. Bill of Rights and thus entitled to a free college education.

Because "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," recreational facilities should be considered. Although Middleboro offers us bowling, swimming, movies, a gymnasium, and a Teen Age Canteen, these do not reach the interests of all young people. Hobby clubs such as horseback riding, hiking, and bicycling would reach many more. In an article in the February 1946 issue of "Recreation" C. E. Rachford said, "Adequate provisions for outdoor recreation may be said, without exaggeration, to be one of the primary requisites of our developing social system."

And again (I quote) according to Robert C. Taber, "The time to act is now. The responsibility rests upon us all to see that these boys and girls are not needlessly added to the already formidable list of war casualties."

DEVELOPMENT OF EDUCATION IN THE TOWN OF MIDDLEBORO

At the present time when education is so much in the public eye, it seems particularly fitting to talk about the development of education in Middleboro, and especially so when the theme of the program this evening is centered on education.

The first record of any school in Middleboro is found when in 1706 the people of the town voted to have one John Bennett appointed as schoolmaster to keep a free school and to teach all that came to him how to read, write, and cast accounts. Apparently, however, his services as schoolmaster were of not too long duration as three years later the grand jury of Massachusetts found a bill against the town for not having a school as the law required. This hit or miss situation of having a teacher and then not having one continued for about ten years.

Finally in 1716 the town was divided into four sections, and Thomas Roberts was hired as teacher. He kept school in one quarter of the town for several months and then moved on to the next so that in this way the whole town could receive the benefits of his teaching in the course of a year. As there were no schoolhouses, the teacher used to gather the children from the neighboring farms at one of the homes to instruct them. It is interesting to notice that for a year's work the town agreed to find Robert's lodgings and pay him the sum of £20 or approximately $100.

One of the oldest schoolhouses in the town was built at Muttock opposite the site of the old Churchill house, largely through the influence of Judge Oliver, before the Revolutionary War. Soon after, several others were erected — one in Eddyville and propably one within the limits of the town of Lakeville. Within a few years after the Revolution there were one room schoolhouses in many neighborhoods, and by 1850 there were forty, a number which held the record for the greatest number of country schoolhouses in any town in the state.

Some of these district schools were: Thomastown, Muttock — which stood at the intersection of Plymouth and Precinct streets until it mysteriously burned one night before the fourth of July — Rock, North Middleboro, South Middleboro, Waterville, Soule Neighborhood, Purchade, Wappanucket, the Green, and many others some of you can probably name. Several of these buildings are still standing, and the North and South Middleboro ones, and the one at Rock are still in use.

These schools usually had one teacher and from fifteen to thirty scholars ranging all the way through the first eight grades. The one big room was heated by a wood stove, and upon the larger boys devolved the duty of building the fires. The boy whose job it was on a particular day would stay late after school the day before to draw water and to gather wood, (supplied by the people living in that district), preparatory to coming early the next day to start the fires. The discipline was strict, and the pupils were certainly not spoiled if sparing the rod would do it. One of the simplest and most effective ways of dealing with the unruly small boys was to make them sit with the little girls.

It is very evident, however, that such a decentralized system would be very inefficient as it would require many more teachers and buildings than a city would for the same number of pupils. But the very size of the town itself required such a system. After the turn of the century, though, came the development of the automobile, making possible the school bus, which in turn made it possible to transport the students into town. There were in town at this time four primary schools: The West Side School, Forest Street School — renamed Flora M. Clark School for one of its principals —, School Street School, and the Old Union Street School. With the coming of the school bus, School Street was rebuilt, Bates School became the grammar school, recently Union Street was replaced, and one by one the country schools were abandoned until today Middleboro has one of the longest daily bus routes in the state.

For a long time, the state of Massachusetts did nothing to aid its citizens in obtaining a higher education, and a person had only one way of getting one—through a private academy. The Pierce Academy was founded by Major Levi Pierce in the year 1808. The first building, built at the cost of $2,500, stood next to the old Baptist Church and faced Thatcher's Row on the lot where the Post Office now is. The Academy struggled along without too much success until 1842 when Professor John P. Jenks was appointed principal. Under his able and energetic hand the enrollment increased rapidly, and the school prospered until by 1850 it had outgrown the old building and a new one was built on the site, remaining there until 1932 when it was razed to make room for the Post Office.

Among the other academies worthy of mention was the Eaton Family School on West Grove Street. This was a private school or a boarding school for boys, which was run from about 1860 up until 1898 by Amos H. Eaton, a former town clerk. And then there was the Titicut Academy in Norrth Middleboro, which later because of the gifts of Enoch Pratt became known as the Pratt Free School.

In the meantime, the state, awakening to its lack of schools, started normal schools and passed laws requiring the towns to have high schools. In accordance with these laws Middleboro established a high school in 1867. It gradually became evident that the town couldn't support both a high school and the Pierce Academy, and so the high school took over the Pierce Academy building until 1873. At that date the town hall was completed, and the high school moved into four rooms of this building with Mr. J. H. Willoughby as principal. It was from here that the first real class was graduated in 1876. Since that time there have been only six other principals of Middleboro High School of whom the best known and best loved was without a doubt Walter Sampson.

The town hall served as the high school until Bates School was finished in 1886, and that in turn served until it was outgrown and replaced by Memorial High in 1928.

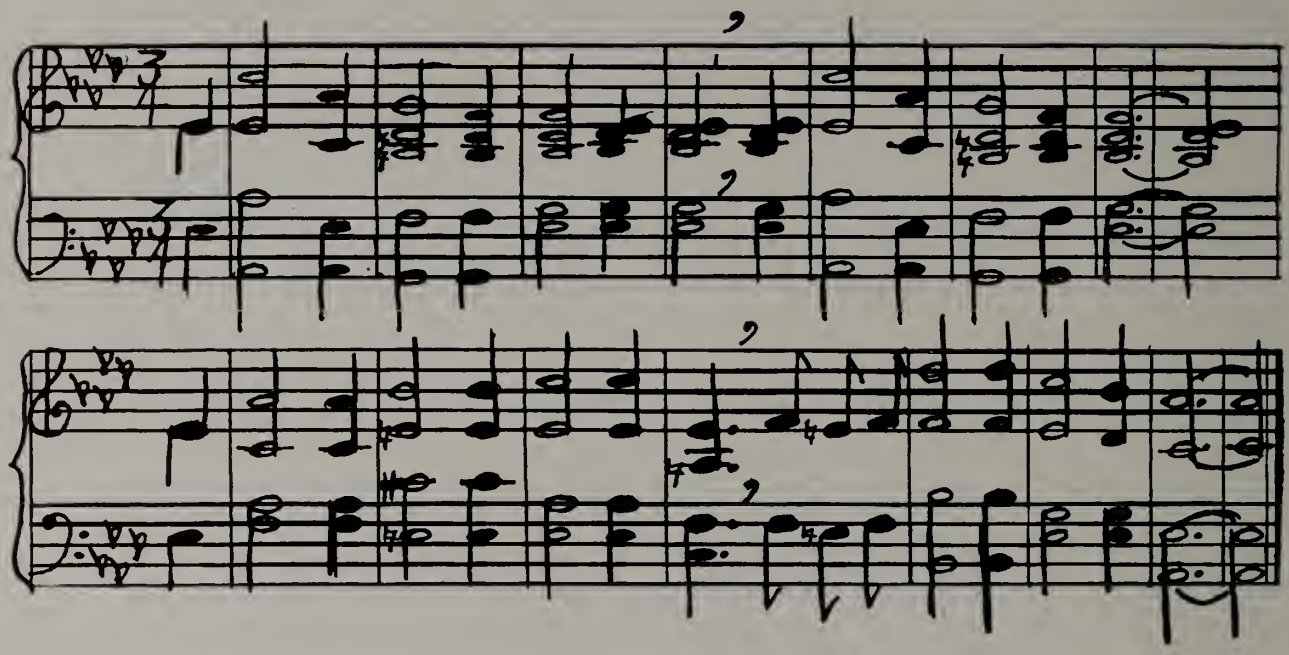
Thus we can see how the educational system in Middleboro was started, and how it has grown until today we find ourselved contemplating building still another high school in order to accommodate all the students satisfactorily.

VALEDICTORY

Four years have passed since we of the Class of 1946 entered Memorial High School. They have been troubled years, interrupted by the problems of a country at war and of then changing back to peace again, but they have been years that have prepared us to meet life. It is with the hope that the experiences and preparation of these years will enable us to make this world a better place in which to live that we say farewell to M. H. S.

CLASS SONG

WORDS AND MUSIC BY FLORENCE HAIRE



The time has come for us to part;
Our future we must face.
'From this day forth' it is our task
To make the world a better place.

Four years we've spent in M. H. S.
Four years of work and fun,
But now on us new duties press;
Our work of life has just begun.

We pledge ourselves to do the task
That God has given us;
'From this day forth' and evermore
We'll hold to this our sacred trust.

Good Luck

GOOD JOBS FOR RADIO MEN!

Here's a real opportunity for young men who have or want to get radio training! These are steady jobs offering good pay, the highest security, every opportunity for promotion and a chance to see the world. You get valuable training in radio, telephone or radar work, good food, clothing, quarters and family allowances. If you go overseas, you get 20% extra pay. You can retire at half pay after 20 years or retire at three-quarters pay after 30 years. And you get a 30-day vacation at full pay every year! Many other advantages not offered in any civilian job. If you are 17 to 34 and physically fit, you can enlist now and qualify for one of these fine jobs in the Service Forces of the U. S. Army. You owe it to yourself to get all the facts NOW! Apply at
